Erin Augustine	Erin created a memorial garden at Dunwoody High School as a lasting tribute to a friend. She arranged the location for the garden, worked with local businesses to select the appropriate plants and flowers for the area and collected donations for the needed materials.
Laura Gamble	Laura collaborated with the Marist Arts Guild to organize and present "Standing Room Only", a rock-themed talent show for all types of performers to benefit her school and the community audience.
Cari Gustavson	Cari made a three-panel mural and designed individual painting projects for the residents of the Roswell Nursing and Rehabilitation Center. She placed the mural in the nursing home's dining area for Alzheimer's patients and helped the residents paint a flower of their choice on the wall.
Nicole Howie & Rachel Slaton	Nicole's and Rachel's combined efforts at Northside Hospital provided the Surgical Floor with an organized "library" of reading materials for family and friends spending time in the waiting area. They collected more than 1,000 books and magazines for families of patients at Northside Hospital. They helped to build shelf units and lazy- susans, asked for donations from the community and organized the magazines at the hospital.
Natalie Ishee	Natalie collected over 500 donated toys for the children undergoing treatment at the Aflac Cancer Center at Children's Healthcare of Atlanta. Natalie worked with the hospital to organize a toy drive to collect these toys for the "Prize Closet" for children undergoing the painful treatment for cancer, leukemia and other illnesses. She sent out letters to community toy stores, businesses and her neighbors and had a large enough response that she was able to donate some toys to local orphanages and homeless shelters.
Kathryn "Katy" Marklein	Katy worked with Habitat for Humanity to help new Habitat homeowners begin to make a home out of their new house. She organized two holiday parties and invited friends and family to attend in order to help make quilts for the families. Kathryn made 10 comforters to be donated.
